LOK SABHA

The following Bills were introduced in Lok Sabha on the 18th April, 1969:—

BILL No. 33 of 1969

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Twentieth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1969. Short title and Commencement.

(2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

2. In article 39 of the Constitution, after clause (f), the following clause shall be added, namely:— Amendment of article 39.

“(g) that childhood and youth are provided with compulsory moral teaching in every educational institution wholly maintained or receiving aid out of State funds.”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The children and youth of today are the future hope of the country. The growing indiscipline in the youth of the country is not a happy sign. They require proper moral instructions which would go a long way in building their character. The educational policy of the country should thus be directed in finding a remedy for this shortcoming. This can only be attained by making provision for imparting compulsory moral teachings in all educational institutions maintained or given aid out of the State funds. This view is also supported by the report of the Education Commission.

Hence the Bill.

BILL No. 32 OF 1969

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Twentieth Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. (1) This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1969. Short title and commencement.
- (2) It shall come into force on such date as the Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.
2. In article 39 of the Constitution, after clause (f), the following clause shall be added, namely:— Amendment of article 39.

“(g) that conversion from one religion to another sought to be attained by threat, undue influence, allurement or wrongful inducement is not permitted,”

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

One of the Fundamental Rights enshrined in the Constitution is the right to profess, practise and propagate religion of one's choice.

Conversion from one religion to another done by free consent and will cannot be questioned. But State protection is required where it is sought to be attained by threat, undue influence, allurement or wrongful inducement. The importance of providing this protection to Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes is all the more necessary and cannot be ignored. The policy of the State should be directed to achieve this aim.

Hence this Bill.
